Notes About Men and Their Doings in the Two Great Fields of National Pastime.

Here is the record of the fat jobs held by Appetite John Traeger from 1897 to date:

- 1897, Town Collector, Town of Lake.
- 1898, Town Collector, Town of Lake.
- 1899, Town Collector, Town of Lake.
- 1900, Coroner, Cook County (December).
- 1901, Coroner, Cook County.
- 1902, Coroner, Cook County.
- 1903, Coroner, Cook County.
- 1904, Coroner, Cook County.

- 1909, City Treasurer, City of Chicago.
- 1911, City Comptroller, Chicago.
- 1912, City Comptroller, Chicago.
- 1913, City Comptroller, Chicago.

This is the fellow who is a candidate for County Treasurer in 1914 and for Mayor in 1915.

E. T. Farrar, Republican member of the legislature from the Twenty-first district, is a candidate, his friends assert, for the sanitary board.

The women who have so long worked for equal suffrage have been greatly cheered by two bits of news: Judge Schuerer of Chester, Ill., in whose court the constitutionality of the suffrage law was attacked, has upheld every line of it.

Judge Owens of the Cook County Court has announced that in choosing election judges and clerks he will construe most liberally the provision that such clerk or judge must be "a householder."

"I want the very best women I can get to be clerks and judges," said Judge Owens. "If, to get the best, I find it necessary to disregard that provision, then I will disregard it."

"The provision that an election official must be the head and chief supporter of a family was made when suffrage was not an issue, and should not be made to apply to women."

"This decision will be a great help to suffrage in Illinois," said Mrs. Mariette Taylor Treadwell. "Now I expect every Illinois Judge before whom this issue is raised, to make a similar decision."

FRANK GOTCH CRUSHES ITALIAN CHAMPION

Gotch With Half Nelson and Crotch Hold on Westgaard.

Leo Pardello, fun maker of the wrestling mat, at one time imagined he could down Frank Gotch. The Italian was heralded as one of the toughest men in the game and Gotch thought he was taking on a big contract in agreeing to an encounter with this fighting "demon" from sunny Italy. Both wrestlers were disillusioned November 26, 1908, at the Brooks' Casino, Chicago, when they met in a finish match. After this defeat Pardello devoted his talents to comedy, and as a mirth producer has made countless thousands laugh.

Gotch had heard that Pardello was a bone breaker and a prize fighter. He was appalled that he would be fortunate to escape with both ears intact and all his teeth in his head after encountering the latest sensation from Latin Europe.

The night of the match found the pavilion packed almost to suffocation. Pardello rushed at Gotch like a wild man when the referee signaled the start, but Gotch side-stepped him. Gotch went to his hands and knees, lifted Pardello in the air and hurled him to the mat. This was the signal for Pardello to employ the rough tactics for which he was noted. He gouged Gotch with his elbow and slugged him in the mixups. The crowd hissed Pardello, but Gotch had learned his opponent's actual strength and took these thrusts lightly.

Soon, however, Pardello showed his temper and resorted to the Marquis of Queensbury code. He came to his feet and made a swing at Gotch and the crowd again hissed. Gotch lunged and brought Pardello to the mat again. Gotch was working for a hold to secure the first fall. He had slipped over a crotch and half nelson and was gradually forcing the shoulders of his opponent to the canvas. Pardello reached over in a fit of rage, grabbed the lowman by the hair and pulled a whole handful of Gotch's hair from the roots. That proved the downfall of Pardello as an aspirant for the highest wrestling honors. In a wild mixup the wrestlers shifted about the mat and in less than thirty seconds Gotch had Pardello's left foot up his back for the toe hold. There was a sharp snap audible to those at the ringside. Pardello, with a groan, fell to the mat in defeat. An examination showed that a ligament had been snapped, but the game Italian came back for the second fall, which Gotch won in a few seconds.

Gotch made a speech, in which he told the crowd he deeply regretted the accident to Pardello. It was one of the few times the world's champion has lost his temper on the mat.

"The day after the match," says Gotch, "a friend of mine met Pardello hobbling about the streets of Chicago. 'What do you think of Gotch now?' my friend asked him.

"Gotcha?" was his answer. 'Why, Gotcha, he very fine da fell. He get on the mat and go to da wrestle. Gotcha, he cracka da joke. One fine da joke. I stoppa to laugh. Gotcha, he catcha my foot and twist him up da backa. Oh, yes, Gotcha, he very fine da fell.'"

After this match Pardello seemed to take a proprietary interest in the champion. After every match Gotch had in Chicago his wrestling tights disappeared. Pardello took them for souvenirs. After his last match in Chicago Gotch ordered a boy to get his tights and see that they were carried to his hotel. Pardello noticed that the boy had them in charge. After Gotch departed from the dressing room he approached the youngster and took the grip, saying Gotch had ordered him to carry it to his hotel. Thus he secured an imposing addition to his trophy room that night.

GOSSIP AMONG SPORTS

Bonesetter Reese, the great friend of the ball players, has cured Howard Shanks' ankle.

Chief Bender has pitched nine games in different world's series and has won six of the number.

There are some things at which even a golfer will balk, among them playing in midwinter.

Joe Birmingham and his Naps claim the Washington Senators will not have anything on them next year.

The annual report of President Tanager of the Three-league indicates that not a fine was collected from a player last season.

The reports from Detroit are that Ty Cobb is to get a salary of $15,000 for his services next year. This is the largest sum ever paid a ball player.

The Federal Baseball leaguers are merrily "entering" many cities. It will have many months for departures, so night as well take in all.

If Gotch were president of the National league the toe hold might become a big factor in settling knotty problems and hair-pulling disputes.

Larry McLean is gaining fame every day as a bowler around Brooklyn, where he is living this winter. He recently averaged 206 for eight games.

The Senators made 117 double plays during the 1913 season. Gandil led all the players in taking part in dual killings, having figured in eighty-nine.

Manager Griffith will keep Nick Altrock and Dutch Schaefer on the Washington payroll next season. Griffith considers the vets of great value to his team.

A Cincinnati sport scribe claims that the team that beats the Cubs next season will win the bunting. He says the Cubs have a strong pitching staff, and it's pitching that counts.

Martin Krug, who was with the Red Sox as sub when they won the world's title, but last year with Indianapolis in the American association, has been sold to the Omaha Western league club.

Connie Mack denies he picked an all star baseball team for a New York paper and omitted the name of Ty Cobb. The way to make Mack talk, it seems, is to accuse him of saying

WOLGAST IS POOR SALESMAN

Lightweight Pugilist Lets Farmer Have Fine Bull for $45 When He Could Have Secured More.

In spite of assertions to the contrary, Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, has been the "goat" in several deals involving the exchange of money. Ad was "stung" for $25 by a farmer just before the ex-champion went to Milwaukee recently.

Ad owns a couple of farms in the vicinity of Cadillac, says the Detroit Journal. He had one fine bull he desired to sell for he didn't want to buy food for the animal during the winter. So a farmer went out to see Ad about the bull. "I'll give you $40 for him," said the tiller of the soil. "Nope, won't take less than $50," Ad replied. The bull was finally sold for $45.

Ad had barely made the deal and was still smiling when another farmer came to buy the bull. "It's sold," beamed Ad. "How much do you think I got?" asked the fighting Dutchman. "About $70 or $75," said the farmer. Ad stared hard for several minutes and then asked: "What were you going to offer?" "O, about $65," said the visitor.

To Launch Cup Defender in May. The American cup defender to be constructed by the Herreshoff-Morgan syndicate will, it is understood, be ready for launching before May 1, 1914, for the syndicate is figuring on using the yacht in the spring races of the New York Yacht club.

Shanks' Ankle Fixed. Bonesetter Reese has cured Howard Shanks' bad ankle. The expert found a tendon out of place. The Washington outfielder now writes that he is as good as ever.

TRIAL YACHTS ARE FAVORED

Yachtmen Are of Opinion That Four Vessels Should Be Entered in the Elimination Races.

Racing yachtmen of the United States are of the opinion that in order to insure a successful defense of the America's cup next year against Sir Thomas Lipton, it will be absolutely necessary under the present conditions to build no fewer than four yachts to enter the elimination races, which should take place some time next August, after contesting in as many races during the summer as possible.

It is conceded by many that building a 75-foot sloop under the present rules for the first time, even by the Herreshoffs, is more or less of a risk when there is no vessel of that dimension ready to use as a trial horse. For this reason it is deemed advisable to build as many sloops as possible, and by different designers, so as to give both the yachts and their crews plenty of practice in racing, the best boat may be chosen to meet the Shamrock IV off Sandy Hook next fall.

The material for the building of the first yacht—the one that the syndicate headed by Henry Walters has ordered—is being assembled at the Herreshoff yard at Bristol, R. I., and it is understood that the keel of the new boat will be laid before Thanksgiving day.

It is quite likely that the keel of the Shamrock IV will be laid about the same time as that of the Herreshoffs' sloop. As usual, the utmost secrecy will be maintained from start to finish in the construction of both yachts, so that no information may leak out concerning the details of the design of either hulls or sail plans until they are ready to race.

MAHMOUT KILLED BY BANDITS

Noted Bulgarian, Who Met Many American Wrestlers, Meets Untimely Death Near Silistria.

Yussif Mahmout, a Bulgarian wrestler, who met a number of American matmen, including Frank Gotch, by whom he was defeated, was killed by a band of Bulgarian bandits in the mountains near Silistria, his home, according to a story told by two Turkish wrestlers who arrived in this country recently.

Mahmout was petty officer in the Bulgarian army during the late war, and, according to their story, went to the town to draw his money to pay of the men in his command. Sixteen bandits, learning the purpose of his trip, waylaid him on his return, but because Mahmout had procured only orders instead of gold coin, they killed him.

Considerate of Mother. Captain Clem Fenker, Cincinnati university's star quarterback and one of the most sensational players of the varsity has developed in years, does not want his mother to see him play.

"I have a peculiar notion that if my mother were to sit in the grandstand and I knew it, I would not be able to play my best game," explained Captain Fenker. "I feel I cannot enter the contest with the same fighting spirit as when I know she is at home. My mother is of a rather nervous disposition. Football is no child's game, and a player is liable to be hurt at any time. I would not want to let her see me injured."

Athletic Coaches Costly. The sum necessary to maintain Harvard's position as a factor in intercollegiate athletics will this year alone exceed $25,000 as salary for the coaches in the different sports.

Football has the biggest expense list, with an outlay of about $13,000. Head Coach Houghton, who has placed Harvard on the football map, receives $8,500; Leary, his assistant, gets $2,500; while others on the staff get minor sums. The track coaches, Donovan and Powers, draw $2,500, while Shrubbs, the cross-country trainer, receives $2,000. All the other coaches get generous stipends.

Plank Victim of Bear Story. Eddie Plank, after pitching wonderful ball in the world series, is quoted as being on the retired list. Plank is thirty-nine years old and one of the wonders of this baseball age.

Senators Sign Two. Otto Nye, an outfielder from Springfield, Ohio, and Herman Schwartz, a pitcher from Brooklyn, have signed contracts to play with the Senators for 1914.
